Get Ready for a Sensational Summer at the Neil Klatskin Day Camp
June 27th through August 19th

NKDC: Blending Jewish Values and Fun

What's special and different about the NKDC is that in addition to all the fun kids have our campers learn how much fun it is to be Jewish. Jewish values, our connection to Israel and Judaism are woven into the daily activities and make our campers feel proud to be Jewish. While they are busy swimming, playing sports, and making new friends, they are also seamlessly exposed to Jewish values that help shape their identity.

And, the impact doesn't end on the last day of camp. Universal statistics confirm that children who attend Jewish summer camps are more likely to become adults who value their Jewish heritage, support Jewish causes, and take on leadership roles in their communities.

NKDC does it right!

We gather as a camp family for weekly Oneg Shabbat celebrations and sing-a-longs. We send challah home with campers every Friday to celebrate the Sabbath... a gift from our family to yours. Israeli culture specialists and Schlichim (Israeli counselors) bond with our campers, teach them Hebrew words and share Israeli customs and traditions.

Visit us at the ACA Camp Fair at the Clinton Inn on Sunday, January 23, 12-4 pm.
Thank You: Moteh Rabbah

Through their annual support contributory members help make membership more affordable, ensuring that the Kaplen JCC on the Palisades remains a place where everyone can belong.

Message from the Executive Director

It's hard to believe, over a generation ago, right before I joined our JCC, I was the director at Camp JCA Sholom, the resident camp for the JCCs in the Los Angeles area. My current position aside, it was one of the highlights of my career. For nearly a quarter of a century, I directed both day and sleep away camps and I loved everything about it. I loved the rhythm of camp, the excitement of it, and the opportunity to impact thousands of young people in such a positive way.

Here at the Kaplen JCC on the Palisades, summer camp is much more than fun and games. It's serious business, and not in the way that you might think. Yes, it's about swimming and ziplines and crafts and circus day and end-of-summer productions. But it's also about nurturing friendships, building community, and forging Jewish identity.

These days, so many of us are concerned about Jewish continuity. How can we ensure that our children grow into adults who are connected with their heritage and involved in their communities? One of the strongest ways is through Jewish camping.

The numbers bear it out. Studies conducted by the Foundation for Jewish Camp and Ramah found that young people who attended Jewish camps were more likely to identify Jewishly as adults. This includes joining synagogues, observing holidays, donating to Jewish charities, and being connected to Israel.

Who said it has to be “no pain, no gain?” Jewish camps give us a chance to instill Jewish values, foster love for Israel, and cultivate Jewish leaders. And it all happens while kids are having a great time, building self-esteem, making new friends, and creating lasting memories. Jewish camp is nothing less than an investment in our future.

The message is simple - when it’s done right, Jewish camp is a transformative experience with long-term impact. And here at the JCC, we do it right. Our camp programs, whether it’s the Neil Klatskin Day Camp, Center Stage Musical Theater Camp, Marty Perlman Sports Camp, Jazz Camp or Teen Adventures, all are designed to help young people grow in body, mind, and spirit. They are built around Jewish values and offer opportunities for meaningful connections with Jewish culture and heritage. And it all happens with a lot of love, warmth, and caring.

All throughout the year, you make the JCC your home. Find your home here for the summer as well.

B’vracha,

Avi A. Lewinson

Renovation Update

We are pleased to report that our two-year renovation and all the related construction are coming to an end. This month, we will open our enhanced Senior Adult Wing with a refurbished Holzer Senior Lounge, a bright and cheerful Kaplen Adult Reach Center (for frail seniors and those with Alzheimer’s) and an expanded Computer Learning Center. A large, beautiful, high-tech teaching kitchen and numerous multi-purpose meeting rooms have opened in the Senior Adult wing as well.

To mark the New Year in style, we will reopen our main entrance, complete with an expanded atrium and lobby, new elevator, expanded men’s and women’s bathrooms, information kiosks, welcome desk, new family bathroom, a private nursing room, and so much more. The new membership offices, for easy member access, will soon move into its permanent home off the lobby, as will Paper dolls, etc., our Judaic gift shop.

Work has begun on the expansion of the downstairs locker rooms, which will include additional lockers (all equipped with digital locks) in a more open space, two private changing rooms for women, and an additional shower for both men and women. Construction is expected to be complete by the end of February. Until then, all members can use the Seiden Wellness Center locker rooms upstairs or the family changing rooms by the Epstein Pool.

The final stage of construction will involve our new café, which will be called JCCafe (a combination of JCC and Café). It is being constructed in the facility adjacent to the courtyard and will utilize the courtyard in good weather, beginning this spring, when it opens for business.

We are so proud of our remodeled and revitalized facility... a real dream come true... and we are indebted to you for the cooperation and patience you have shown throughout this often trying and difficult transition. We thank every one of you and hope you enjoy the benefits of this transformation for years and years to come!

To stay current on these final phases, please refer to signage that is displayed throughout the building or email us at renovation@jccotp.org.

Transfer Pricing: International Taxation of Inter-Company Transactions (In Hebrew)
with Yariv Ben-Dov
Tuesday, January 25, 8 pm, Free & Open to the Community
Transfer pricing is considered by 80% of US financial officers as their greatest exposure, and is the main focus of the IRS, as well as other tax authorities (including in Israel). Transfer pricing relates to the pricing between related companies (most commonly with parent or sister corporations) and with their controlling shareholders, and includes distribution agreements, management fees, R&D, marketing services, loans, etc. Failing to meet the requirements of the IRS and tax authorities may lead to fines, double taxation (regardless of treaties) and personal liability of the company’s officers.
Yariv Ben-Dov is an internationally acclaimed expert in transfer pricing, and is often invited to speak on this matter in the US. Until 2006, Yariv was the global transfer pricing manager for the whole TEVA Pharmaceutical group, and is today a consultant to companies such as Disney, Easy-Forex, RAD, Netifim, Nova, Crocs, Taro, Teva and Berlitz. Please RSVP to tlevy@jccotp.org.

Deb Roberts’ Stage Right Workshop, an ensemble of extremely talented young performers, is presenting an abridged version of the Disney favorite, Beauty and the Beast. This musical adventure with a glorious score by Alan Menken begins with everyone's favorite Tale as Old as Time and includes Human Again, Belle, Be Our Guest and the Beast’s unforgettable solo, If I Can't Love Her. Kathy Mobray, the musical director, has made each song accessible to young voices.

The heroine, Belle, played by Amanda Leifer, prefers books to the conceited Gaston, played by Nadav Ziv. Belle follows her wonderful father (Anna Faske) to the castle of an enchanted prince who looks and behaves like a “Beast” (Doron Arnon). The joker, Lefou, is Hyatt Aronoff. The castle characters are Mia Park, Camryn Bolkin, Raquel Leifer, Valentina Ramirez-Cruz, Emma Parish, Gili Zafman, and Madison Gagnon. These are stars of the future and well worth seeing in their first big workshop of the year.

Deb Roberts’ Performance Workshop, an advanced ensemble of young actors, is presenting a “kids” adapted version of the classic Broadway musical West Side Story, a contemporary take on Romeo and Juliet inspired by Jerome Robbins. The music is widely considered one of Leonard Bernstein’s greatest scores. The lyrics by Stephen Sondheim include romantic pieces such as Somebunny Somewhere, Tonight and Maria and very funny songs like Gee, Officer Krupke and America. Kathy Mobray is the Musical Director, and Lisa Graye, a former student who is making a name for herself as a professional actress-singer-dancer in the industry, is creating marvelous choreography.

The story takes place on the West Side of New York City at a time when a new group of Puerto Rican kids, the Sharks, were challenging the resident gang, the Jets, who believed they were the coolest kids on the street. Bernardo, the head Shark is played by Justin Rivera, his girl-friend, Anita is played by Sage Miller and Adina Walzer. His sister, Maria is played by Natalia Rodriguez and Allison Yaffee; Consuela by Katie Fishel, Officer Krupke and Grazziella by Gabrielle Chishinsky, Rosalia by Alexa Mark and Teresita and Doc, by Emmanuelle Speaker. The head of the Jets, is played by Ariel Abergel, Gladchand and Chino by David Smolyak, and Tony, the ex-jet who falls in love with Maria, by Carlos Tariche.

Each screening is introduced with pointers from Mr. Chaplar and followed by optional discussion. Participants are given tools to identify plot lines, design elements, character choices, thematic nuances and the films and their use to a well-crafted film.

A romantic comedy about the courage to confront life, this is a graceful and funny Indie film. Jeff Daniels plays a hugely famous and reclusive author whose latest book, Me and God, corners 10% of the God market. He rants and mistreats whomever he meets until one day he throws out his back and is forced to seek help at a clinic. The young practitioner works a seeming miracle, and changes his view on life.

$3 JCC members, $5 non-members per film.

The Three Weissmans of Westport

Thursday, January 27 at 10am
At the home of Judy Gold
Book Sale & Signing after Presentation

At the age of 78, Joseph Weissmann divorced his 75-year-old wife, claiming they had “irreconcilable differences.” With real confusion in her eyes, she responded: “Of course we have irreconcilable differences, but what on earth does that have to do with divorce?” Thus begins The Three Weissmans of Westport, a sparkling contemporary adaptation of Sense and Sensibility.

LAVISH LUNCHES 2011
A CULINARY ADVENTURE

Featuring John DeLucie
Thursday, March 3rd

John DeLucie is the Executive Chef / Proprietor of The Lion, located in Manhattan’s West Village, featuring classic American cuisine with Italian influences. He is also the Founding Chef & Partner of The Waverly Inn, which opened in 2007 in Greenwich Village to critical acclaim.

DeLucie was named MTV’s first Celebrity Chef at the 2009 Movie Awards and returned in 2010 to fill this coveted position. He is a native New Yorker, attended New York University, and lives in the West Village, just steps away from The Lion and The Waverly Inn.

Raised in a traditional Italian-American family, John was surrounded by great food. His grandfather owned a fruit and vegetable market and brought home bountiful selections of fresh produce each evening that his grandmother turned into flavors meals. After attending a cooking class at the New School for Culinary Arts in N.Y., John gave up his 9-5 corporate job, deciding a career as a chef was his true calling.

After graduating from culinary school, John toured the world’s culinary capitals, including France, Italy, and Spain, where he discovered his own unique cooking style, fusing modern cooking techniques with European flavors. Upon returning to the States, he began working in the kitchen of Arizona 206, a Southwestern eatery that went on to earn three stars by The New York Times. Later, John worked at the venerable American seafood restaurant, Oceana, where he created his own high-end, artisan cooking that eventually inspired his menu at The Waverly Inn.

DeLucie has been featured on, Entertainment Tonight, NBC’s Today, CBS’ Early Show, Martha Stewart, CBS Sunday Morning, as well as the Wall Street Journal, Vanity Fair, Town & Country, New York Times and more. His memoir, The Hunger: A Memoir of an Accidental Chef was released in 2009 to rave reviews.

The Arab/Israeli conflict is among the most intractable disputes in the world today. In this meticulously researched and well-written work, Dr. Alex Grobman, a renowned historian trained at the Hebrew University in Jerusalem, systematically and methodically exposes the myths and lies about the Arab claim to the land of Israel.

Grobman shows that the Arabs have never accepted the right of Jews to re-establish their sovereignty in the land of Israel, and how they continually try to refute the Jewish connection to Israel, especially the city of Jerusalem: by destroying Temple Mount artifacts, by accusing Israeli archaeologists of manipulating authentic archeological evidence and by charging that the Jews are not a people at all, and are consequently not entitled to a country of their own.

Sunday, January 30, 2 pm

The aim of the Art Response Series is to create artwork which supports Israel’s right to exist. Artists will come together at various Israel advocacy events, in several locations in New Jersey and New York. After the lectures, they will meet with Artists 4 Israel representatives and have a chance to gather inspiration in order to create art in response to the lecture. Created privately and according to artist’s schedule, the resulting artwork will be exhibited in mini exhibitions, and then entered into a juried show which will be exhibited in New York. The aim is to create art which is pro-Israel which will be viewed by thousands of visitors.

Sometimes, we start out on a path in life and have no idea where it will take us. And then, somewhere along the way, a door opens that leads to unexpected opportunities.

This is what happened to Sara Levinson, a JCC member, who realized a life dream by running in the NYC Marathon in 2006, for a second time, on November 7. Realizing this dream was a personal triumph, but as she is quick to point out, the success was not nearly as meaningful as the journey... a journey that began at the JCC. Here is her story, as she shared on the eve of the race:

“Tomorrow, I am going to run the New York City Marathon for the second time. G-d willing, I will finish. And the reason I share this is not because I want any kind of accolades. As a matter of fact, please don’t congratulate me, as it would make me feel awkward. I am sharing this because as I was sitting at a membership meeting this past Tuesday, I was reminded that this journey started at the JCC.

When Josh, my husband, and I moved here in August of 1999, we joined the Center. We have some familial affinity to the JCC and we wanted to meet people from the community. We made some friends and enrolled our children in the programming at the center.

My oldest daughter, Sofia, was in the three’s program at the Leonard and Syril Rubin Nursery School when I ran into the mother of one of her classmates, who was getting ready to run the NYC Marathon. I shared with her my secret desire to run the marathon and acknowledged that I had never run a mile in my life. This was nine years ago. Robin, the mother, quickly turned to me and said: “If you want to do it, you can. One mile at a time.”

With those words, the following week I went to the Seiden Health Center and got on the treadmill. My first mile took close to 13 minutes. I was so excited, the next time I saw Robin I told her I ran a mile. She encouraged me to go for two. And that is how it started. Every day I would go to the JCC and get on the treadmill.

Every day the same people would be there and we would engage in this happy camaraderie on the treadmill.

One day, the woman running next to me suggested I run outside. I was up to six miles by then. I told her that I was scared. The good news about the treadmill, is that I can get off at any time and be in the same place I started. I didn’t want to be stuck in the middle of somewhere and not be able to get back. But I took her advice and went outside and ran four miles.

That following May, I signed up for my very first race, the annual JCC Rubin Run. It took me 65 minutes to complete the run. I felt like a champ.

I continued running, with different people. More miles. As the years went by, our family grew and there was always at least one child enrolled at the nursery school or the Neil Kaplen Day Camp.

I worked hard to get a spot in the NYC Marathon for 2008 and proceeded to train with some of the folks I met at the Center. We would meet at the JCC after we dropped off our kids and go for a run. It was really fun. We trained together; did some New York Road Runners training runs together; ran the Rubin Run that year. Some of us even rode to the marathon together and we all finished the race. I completed a dream I never thought I was able or capable of fulfilling.

And tomorrow, I will hopefully do it again. 26.2 miles.”

Sara finished the run in four hours and seven minutes, a journey that began at the JCC, one mile at a time.

ENNOUNCING: A LOVING LEGACY

Over the years, endowment funds have enabled the JCC to enhance our programs and services and respond to challenges within our community. We thank you for making a commitment to our agency and our future.

Types of Endowments
Endowment funds allow you to give in personal and creative ways. They can be named:
• In honor of a loved one
• Recognize a family member or friend on a special occasion
• Meet the goals of a family foundation

Benefits
• They can be earmarked for an existing JCC service or program, allowing you to support a specific cause or interest that is important to you.
• They can be named for a loved one, allowing you to honor or remember someone meaningful in your life.
• They are gifts that “keep on giving.” Only a small amount of your fund’s value is expended each year, so the fund lives on—helping people in need and perpetuating the memory of the person you are honoring.
• Can be tailored in many ways to meet your philanthropic needs.

How to Establish an Endowment Fund
For a charitable, tax-deductible donation of $10,000 or more, you can establish a personal endowment fund at the JCC. We are continually evolving the needs of our community, and we pride ourselves on our ability to offer programs and services that enrich our members’ lives. The additional revenue generated by personal endowment funds, makes it possible to offer the new and dynamic programs. Please, consider establishing a personal endowment and help us address important needs in our community.

To set up an endowment or to learn more about giving opportunities at the JCC, please contact Avi A. Lewinson, Executive Director, JCC on the Palisades, 411 East Clinton Avenue, Tenafly, New Jersey 07670. Call 201.488.1412 or email alewinson@jccotp.org

Tricon Duties
Donations can be made to individual endowment funds in honor of a special occasion such as a wedding or anniversary, a Bar/Bat Mitzvah, the birth of a child, or in memory of loved ones. The JCC sends notification cards to recipients and publishes the tributes in our monthly newspaper, In The Center. The minimum donation for a tribute card is $18.

WELCOME NEW STAFF

Galia Sagee joins the JCC School of Performing Arts

A lovely high-energy instructor/director, Galia Sagee, has joined the School of Performing Arts to bring a world of imagination to very young actors, teaching the joy of performing in a new creative theater class based on Disney. It meets on Mondays from 2:05-2:55 pm for 4-5½ year olds and on Mondays from 3:40-4:30 pm for 3½-5 year olds.

The class will include Disney themes, Princess and the Frog, Toy Story and the Jungle Book as well as movement, games and improvisation based on the holidays, families, pets, feelings, friends, the five senses and more.

Galia is a charismatic Israeli teacher of Theater Arts, an excellent stage director and has been a popular first grade teacher. She has a masters degree in Educational Counselling from Oranim Academic College in Kiryat Tivon, Israel. She has been a group leader at the Ayelet Center for Psychodrama and Integrative Arts and received certification in Theater Ed from the Kibbutzim College of Education and the Arts.

Her engaging personality inspires such confidence that even the shyest of her students flourish in her classes. Children enjoy her teaching style, and learn delightful skills as well. For further information call Deborah Roberts at 201.408.1492 or Inbal Israeli at 201.408.1493.

What if somebody gave you $10,000 to help fix the world?
JCC Teen Philanthropy Institute
One of the greatest gifts we can ever bestow on our youth is teaching them the importance of giving. This impressive program will foster a new generation of committed, influential leaders who embrace the Jewish values of Chesed, Tzedakah, and Tikkun Olam. Participants will gain valuable leadership skills, form bonds with socially-conscious Jewish peers, and learn how to make a difference. We invite interested teens to apply. Class will be limited to 20 post Bar/Bat Mitzvah teens, who will serve on a grant-making board, learn how to become a strategic philanthropist, and contribute to a pooled fund that will support a selected charity. Call Judy Nahary at 201.408.1470.
